REAL THAW

Real Thaw 2019

The REAL THAW 19 (RT19) is a Portuguese Air Force training exercise, scheduled by the Air Force Chief of Staff and conducted by the Air Command (CA). It's planned to be a Large Force Employment Exercise on a joint and combined framework.

The exercise will be conducted from 22SET19 to 04OCT19 at Air Base 11, Portugal. Units will be employed under a simulated UN authorized mandate to deploy as a multinational stabilization force, which will formally be known as the "Allied Coalition Force".

Goals

The main objective of RT19 is to evaluate and certify the operational capability of the Air Force, in a multinational joint training environment.

The exercise will be initially focus on a CJTF opposed entry scenario, projecting force into a failing state and encountering opposition from both conventional and insurgent forces.

Promote relevant opportunities for training in several aspects of Air Missions, including "COMAO" missions for Air and Counter Air Defense, Tactical Transport, Helicopter operations and others. The operations will be conducted within a joint combined framework, focusing on the command and control of forces on the tactical level in a live exercise.

The operations will consist of several major operations occurring simultaneously: humanitarian assistance, peace support operations and combat operations.

Scenario

The RT19 scenario does not reflect any real world geostrategic situation.

This fictitious scenario intent to create an environment which will support the tactical units to fulfill its training objectives during RT19.

The RT19 scenario simulates real world dynamic battlefields in accordance with exercise EXSPEC, to maximize the joint interoperability in tasks like Counter-Air, Air Interdiction, Close Air Support, Dynamic Targeting, MEDEVAC, CSAR, ISR or Special Operations.
